

Bachelor of Science in Education

Summit Technology Academy in partnership with University of Central Missouri

This Fast Track program helps students determine if education is the right career choice and prepares them for success with a Bachelor of Science in Education.

What Does the Fast Track Program Offer?

- Earn up to seven hours of teacher education dual credits while in high school.
- Develop valuable pedagogical competencies that school districts look for in job candidates.
- Meet with a UCM advisor to plan out your path.
- Meet UCM education professors and learn firsthand about UCM's education program and early opportunities.
- Save up to 70% off undergraduate tuition with dual credit courses and learn about UCM scholarships to help pay for your tuition.
- Participate in junior and senior level UCM major classes at the MIC campus (elementary and early childhood).
- Earn nearly 10 hours of Teaching Field Experience each week during senior year of high school.
- Learn about student MSTA and NEA professional organizations.
- Cohort-based model allows time in college for additional certifications.
- UCM graduates the most teachers in the state.
- Nearly 85% of Missouri districts have UCM education majors in their professional staff.
